

Community Foundations set table to transform Southwest Florida

Chatting with neighbors and friends over a meal or cup of coffee is a time-honored tradition. It's also a great way to move our communities forward. As Southwest Florida emerges from the global COVID-19 pandemic and Hurricane Ian, community conversations are more important than ever.

The Charlotte Community Foundation, Collaboratory, and Collier Community Foundation are partnering to host On the Table SWFL, meaningful, mealtime conversations to drive social impact and strengthen our communities. This collective of community leaders is coming together to convene these conversations as a catalyst for regional collaboration to address issues and opportunities affecting Southwest Florida residents.

Community Conversations. Regional Impact.

The inaugural On the Table SWFL initiative, produced by Collaboratory in October 2019, welcomed more than 1,500 participants. In 2023, Collaboratory is partnering with Collier Community Foundation and Charlotte Community Foundation. In conjunction with Florida Gulf Coast University, the foundation partners will capture conversation themes and identify region-wide social priorities in an impact report that will be shared broadly. As a follow-up to On the Table SWFL, the foundations pledge to work together on issues identified through the conversations to create a more sustainable and vibrant Southwest Florida.
